A WORD FROM THE MAYOR

Private streets

I get a lot of calls and emails about private streets, especially from new residents now living on these private streets. Unfortunately, when buying a house or land situated on a private street, buyers do not always obtain from realtors or sellers all the information that applies to private streets.

In Gore, there are 114 private streets having a total length of approximately 45 km. Private streets do not belong to the municipality and are managed by the residents who live on the street and who come together by forming an association or by the efforts of the the owner of the street, who then collects maintenance costs from each resident.

The municipality knows that maintenance, snow removal and repairs are expensive. Unfortunately, it is prohibited by law for a municipality to pay for maintenance and repairs on private streets. The only financial assistance we can offer is to pay for snow removal; this assistance is governed by a by-law adopted by the council. Consequently, since 2016, the municipality has contributed financially to the snow removal of several private streets. Moreover, residents living along a private street can ask the municipal council to adopt a special tax by-law that permits the cost of a major repair work to be placed on individual tax bills. This enables costs to be divided between all the owner along the street. Another option which is possible under specific circumstances, is to apply for the municipalization of the private street. In this case, the cost of upgrading the street to municipal standards is at the expense of the owners on the street and is separated and charged on everyone's tax bill for a predetermined number of years. Some private streets in Gore have thus become municipal (Williams Street for example).

When I lived along a private street at Lake Barron, my neighbors and I would have a big BBQ in the summer. Each resident would place money in a common fund that was used to pay for street related costs. Coming together is essential when you live on a private street because the responsibility for it is shared between all the residents living along it or using it to access their land. The key to success is constant maintenance and not letting the street deteriorate, otherwise the costs can become enormous.

If you have any questions about your private street and the assistance that the municipality can provide, do not hesitate to write to info@cantondegore.qc.ca.

As always, I can be reached on my cell phone at 514 941-2224.

Your mayor
Scott Pearce

Abeilles de la Colline is a local apiary founded in 2016 by Elena and Vladimir, a Canadian-Bulgarian couple passionate about bees and honey. We have hives in Mille-Isles but also in Gore, Arundel and Harrington. Taking into account the well-being of bees and the environment, our desire is to establish as many colonies of bees as possible in rural natural environments near Mille-Isles.

Our company prides itself on prioritizing zero waste and sustainable practices in its apiaries. For example, most beekeeping equipment is built locally from wood, some of which is donated by local organizations, and beekeeping equipment is not painted. Not only do we avoid plastic in packaging, but we are aware of the importance of reusing packaging. We ask the community to return glass containers for reuse as the majority of our products are packaged in glass jars.

Les Abeilles de la Colline raise bees and practice sustainable beekeeping. We are respectful of the environment and we are aware of the importance of pollination in our environment for the survival of animals that depend on these plants for food.

Come and meet us on May 20 in Gore during Environment Day, We will present our hive products for sale. During the event, you can inquire about getting your own bees and ask us about beekeeping lessons. Bring your empty glass jars of different sizes with lids, to reuse them.

2023 DANDELION CHALLENGE

Once again this year, the Municipality is proud to participate in the Miel et co. dandelion challenge, established in 2021. What is the purpose of such a challenge? To make the population aware of the importance of pollinating insects and especially of the many services they provide. The decline of pollinating insects is up to 1000x higher than normal. Yet 75% of the world's food production depends on insect pollinators. Between 60 and 90% of wild plants need insect pollinators to reproduce. Without pollinators, we would have no fruits and vegetables. Between 60 and 90% of wild plants require pollinating insects to reproduce, and without pollinators we would have no fruits and vegetables.

What can we do to help them? It's easy! As soon as the first dandelions arrive, let them be visited by a wide variety of pollinating insects. After 2 to 3 weeks, mow the lawn to allow new dandelions to grow and bring new pollen and nectar to the insects. Why dandelions? Because they are the first source of pollen and nectar for bees after a hard winter.

You can continue to help pollinators throughout the summer by planting wildflowers and avoiding the use of herbicides and pesticides on your property. For more information, visit Honey and Co., and don't forget to send us pictures of your dandelion challenge at mlandry@cantondegore.qc.ca.

CONSERVATION GALA AWARD

On March 16th, the Conservation Gala organized by Laurentian Eco-Corridors was held in Val-Morin. This gala was set up to publicly recognize the efforts made by municipal authorities in the development of projects in conservation of natural environments. A total of 7 municipalities submitted projects for the 2023 edition. We are very pleased to have won the "Community Awareness of the Importance of Natural Environments" award for the educational panels project at the Parc Nature du Lac Beattie.

This project, which is currently underway, will allow the implementation of an educational signage network focusing on the conservation and protection of our natural environments. This project will allow us to inform visitors of all ages on the importance of conservation and will highlight the richness of biodiversity that is found on our territory. We would like to thank our financial partners who have made this project possible, namely the Fondation de la Faune du Québec and the Government of Québec.

THE WORLD OF AMATEUR RADIO

Amateur radio, better known as "ham radio", means many things to many people - over 84,000 of them in Canada alone. Amateur radios have at their fingertips the ability to directly contact diverse and fascinating people they may never meet and who live in distant places they will never visit. They do this without any external infrastructure, such as a cellular network or the Internet, using their own equipment and antennas. They contact each other directly and do it because it's fun and provides a sense of accomplishment.

As a radio amateur, you can meet new friends, earn rewards, experience and learn about radio science and technology, challenge yourself in live competitions (radiosport), contribute to your community, travel, to promote international goodwill and to continue a tradition of wireless communication more than a century old. They are also involved in emergency communications in the event of disasters. They will be in Gore, June 24 and 25, at the Beattie Lake Nature Park, for an emergency exercise (fieldday) taking place across North America.

Come and discover this fascinating universe with our Ranger's team. This activity is free for

THE LAC DES FILLES ESTATE OWNERS ASSOCIATION

A new lake association is born in Gore.

It was on March 25 that the Lac des Filles Estate Owners Association was founded.

This group aims, among other things, to defend the interests of member owners and safeguard the integrity of this private lake, the dam that regulates this watercourse and the common areas attached to it.

The members adopted the general regulations and the internal regulations of the field in order to ensure the proper functioning of the non-profit organization and ensure its sustainability.

Directors were elected. As president, Mr. Bernard Lortie, the vice-president, Mr. Stéphane Roy, the treasurer, Mr. Pierre Bradley, as secretary, Mrs. Françoise Jutras and Mr. Zakari Chamberland, administrator.

This meeting was imbued with the spirit of the founder of the domain, Mr. Paul Denommé, whose dream was able to be pursued and realized by his children: Caroline, Linda and Marc. In short, the domain of Lac des Filles, a place where life is good.

OUR HISTORY

The Beginning of a Story – Realizing a Dream (Part Two)

Steve Vachon and Kerr Farm

By Lori Leonard

Steve Vachon and his life partner Melissa have worked very diligently and passionately the last couple of years to bring Kerr Farm back to its original state. Steve has lovingly dedicated laborious hours of work to have just the right lighting, wallpaper, beautiful woodwork and furniture. Steve and Melissa have collected many unique antique pieces to enhance the beauty of the building that houses 8 bedrooms, a huge dining area and living space.

If you have any antique furniture that you no longer use that you would like to donate to Kerr Farm, please contact them. There is also a charming 150 year old large barn on the premise and what used to be a general store which now houses fresh sprouts which Steve sells. The renovated bedrooms at the farm are now ready for rental and the large dining room and beautiful barn can be utilized for special events, weddings, family parties or weekends for friends' get-togethers.

With strong support from local history buff Jean-François Hamilton and Lori Leonard (Lori's Links) and many others who are also passionate about Kerr Farm, a special documentary film and book about the history and memories of Kerr Farm will be created. A Memoires evening took place in early December and other Memoires evenings are planned for the future. Memoires evenings encourage those whose families stayed or worked at Kerr Farm or were married there to share their very unique memories. Various people will be interviewed and videoed to be part of the documentary film. If you would like to share some of your memories, some photos or history about Kerr Farm, please feel free to contact them. As well, two local singers will use these memoires to create both an English and French theme song for the farm which will be included in the documentary and on the new website.

Steve, it is wonderful to see you and Melissa realizing your dream which in turn, will fulfill the dreams of many others for years to come! For more info, contact Kerr Farm at 450 438-5161, or at info@fermekerr.com, website is fermekerr.com.
